CAMP NEWS
February 2006

The next meeting of the Capital Apple Macintosh Performa User Group will be held on Wednesday, Feb, 8th, 2006, at 7:00 p.m. in Room 103 at Gardiner Area High School. Michelle Cloutier, aided by Becky Ranks, will demonstrate the Smartboard, some of its applications in education, and perhaps elsewhere. If time permits Becky would like to briefly show us how to set up a personalized Google page, while Jeff will be ready in the wings with some 'Stupid Word Tricks.' Board of Directors meeting at 6:15 (not 6:30) in room106 (not 103)

IN THIS ISSUE

1] February Meeting
2] stealth site reminder
3] Atomic Learning
4] Keyboard Shortcuts
5] Latest ipod info
6] Dogcow and Moof
7] 2 maintenance articles

In case you missed it here is the site Sue gave us related to stealth checking your computer. www.securitymetrics.com/proxycheck.adp

I took it upon myself to look into what Atomic Learning offers for a 'deal' on access to their tutorials. this simply may be a point of info for CAMP members, or something we may want to consider for the group as a whole. Whaddya think?

Mr. Katz,
Thank you for your interest in Atomic Learning. We offer a very cost-effective web-based software training and support resource. All content in our library is included for one low price including tutorials on various operating systems, Microsoft Office and over 90 other software applications.

Individual annual subscriptions to Atomic Learning are $79.99 US. We offer volume discounts with the purchase of as few as 5 individual users.
The volume discounts are as follows:

1-4	$79.99
5-9	$75.00
10-24	$70.00
25-49	$65.00
50-99	$55.00
100-199	$45.00

200–499 $35.00

A subscription includes access to the complete library of Atomic Learning tutorials and content as well as the additional tutorials we add during your subscription. We are currently adding, on average, 400 new tutorials every 45 days at no additional cost to you.

You can use the following demo account to take a closer look at Atomic Learning. The account will be valid through Feb 15:

February Password: arrow

QuickTime needed to view the tutorials.

 Once we receive your order we will begin providing you with access to the over 17,000 valuable tutorials covering over 90 software applications.
Chuck Amos

TOLL FREE BUSINESS NUMBER 1–866–259–6890 x110
Fax: 603–215–0106
Direct phone 763–497–8092

Atomic Learning
P.O. Box 332
Little Falls, MN 56354

Email: camos@atomiclearning.com
http://www.atomiclearning.com

Hey! 2 really valuable sites for keyboard shortcuts – thanks to Adam

http://guides.macrumors.com/Keyboard_shortcuts

http://developer.apple.com/documentation/UserExperience/Conceptual/OSXHIGuidelines/XHIGKeyboardShortcuts/chapter_20_section_1.html#//apple_ref/doc/uid/TP40002725-CHDIGFBH

Apple unveils $149 iPod nano
Company also cuts price on iPod shuffle, says it will sell Showtime television programs on iTunes.
February 7, 2006: 9:11 AM EST

NEW YORK (CNNMoney.com) - Apple Computer unveiled a new iPod nano Tuesday and said it will sell shows from Showtime Networks on its iTunes Music Store.

The 1GB iPod nano, which sells for $149, comes in black and white and holds up to 240 songs or 150,000 photos, the company said in a statement.

The 1GB iPod nano sells for $149.

The new iPod nano features Apple's click wheel and is designed for ultra-portability, the company said, adding that it is thinner than a No. 2 pencil.

Apple (Research) also announced new pricing for its iPod shuffle, with the 512MB model costing $69 and the 1GB model priced at $99.

In a separate statement, Apple said that it will sell television shows from Showtime Networkson its iTunes Music Store.

More than 50 TV shows are available for viewing on a computer or iPod for $1.99 an episode, Apple said.

Do you want to Meet the Dogcow and Learn the Truth about Moof! Here's the URL:
http://www.storybytes.com/view-
moof/articles/mim.html
_____

That's all for this month. Sorry about the lateness of this edition.
Thanks to those who suggest articles, sites, etc.   sk